Keywords: personality, sweet word, culture, tone, problem, society, attitude.

The images and shapes of the figures are made beautiful. This wisdom assumes that their treatment will also be beautiful. The person approaches the level of perfection as he makes his image and urine, his inner world beautiful. Therefore, children should receive politeness and forgiveness as a slogan in circulation. The stronger the attention, the more chances in the presence of this quantitative parent. Usually a person finds his reputation through language. In this right of our wise people is "attention to language, attention to El". "Let the wheat be your word, let the wheat be your bread". "Bitter tongue poison snake, Soul Sacrifice to the fresh tongue". "The patient needs a sweet word, an eye for the fool". It is not for nothing that such Proverbs as" the sentence is good in short, the contribution is good in short."

After all, it is the main factor that facilitates the way of life, which indicates the spiritual level of the individual, becomes the basis for profit in doing business, stabilizes Health-Health.

We face different situations in life. Some parents create all the conditions for their children when they dress, eat, receive education and work in order to make them unkind, exemplary. The child misunderstands these possibilities, and the arrogant, Mannerist mood negatively affects his morality. In the end it hurts, hurts the hearts of parents with a word of mouth in exchange for a rude, thoughtful shallow attitude in the treatment and communication of satiety. As a result, the culture of treatment in the middle goes out of the way, others are disappointed in it. Problems and difficulties arise that are difficult to fix. Whether children are sons or daughters, they will never receive the respect of El unless they know how to deal.

If we look, with the beauty of the culture of treatment, problems are solved, the path to Hearts is found, dreams come true, conditions are created for the disappointment of the parents. At this point, our people did not say for nothing that "with a sweet word, the snake comes out of the nest." Even beautiful treatment can overtake the good done with material funds.

As long as the individual exists in this being, he will relentlessly interact with those around him, whether he wants it or not?! Sometimes it can happen that he goes on a trip in the same car with someone he doesn't like, or that he has to work for years in the same room with a colleague who has never been able to agree. His occasional visit also coincides with his contract with a blind man. Every nechuk often meets them, if not all the time. The person talks miriqib with his loved ones and friends, which is undoubtedly. But not all individuals in society are his friends! How to chat with them. For a cultured person, this will never cause problems. The problem is that there are a number of rules for chatting with individuals of different classes in society that not everyone knows about it, and this reason is fraught with great-small disappointments. In many cases, such individuals face not only disappointment, but also bad luck. This is a sad situation, of course. It is also possible that the person will never fall into such a state. So if you follow a few small rules in the process of talking to different individuals for this:

- It is impossible to talk about a topic that will put your interlocutor in a difficult, frustrating, uncomfortable situation, which he does not want to talk about
- Avoid giving your interlocutor a definition, classification, increasing attention to information about your own problems and achievements.
- During the conversation, do not put your "i" in a central place, be humble.
- Get into the conversation after finding out what information your interlocutor has about his social background, about the issue being said as a person, so that you do not feel ashamed before promoting your opinion.
- Learn to respect your interlocutor, even hearing his opinion to the end when you find it wrong
- From gossiping other individuals, talking about their problem is also considered immoral.

Any conversation is primarily a data exchange. When the conversation is in public places or on the street, it is necessary to lower the tone of the voice without attracting others. Fast or overstretched speech also interferes with the assimilation of information. A light topic that is understandable to everyone is chosen when communicating with low-treatment, not well-known individuals. For example, football, TV series, TV shows v.h.k. never family problems, disagreements in personal life, did not understand himself and did not have information. It is impossible to talk about topics related to narrow specialization.

Talking about frightening events, frustrating situations, in which everyone is talking in a happy state, makes others feel discouraged. It is impossible to talk about death when visiting a sick person, about the history of his sick person, about small ones. It is necessary to create a conversation in its place on the fact that, even if it is a lie, it is better to appear, it will certainly recover. There is no talk of appetizing topics around the table. It is not possible to worsen the dish, to look short, but to cheer up the person who cooked it. An educated and cultured person does not use lies when expressing an opinion about a common acquaintance, does not say unworthy words about him. When he comes in while expressing an opinion about an individual (even when he is a bad person), he laughs in his head, looks iboli, pishes, chases, sometimes hurts even more deeply than the real thought he told Beth.

The fact that the person also knows how to listen during the conversation is daunting. Listening doesn't mean just hearing and sitting. A good interlocutor is a person who, after the logical completion of the opinion of his interlocutor, gives a complete statement of his opinion. At a time when it becomes very necessary to apologize, for example, "I'm sorry, I think that's what you think..." or "I apologize for having your opinion, I think..." the person speaking at this time should allow the interlocutor. There will certainly be misunderstandings between young people and adults when it comes to the individual's worldview. At such times, it is important for young people to change the subject as "okay" without favoring their thoughts to prevent adults from suffering from dili.

Even in the fate of your interlocutor, who considers his opinion wrong, you are treated as an educated and humble person and referred to with the phrases "I think you were lost", "sorry I am in another opinion", "sorry, I do not agree with your opinion". It is never possible to use the phrases "completely wrong", "you do not understand anything in this right", "this thing is also known by a young child."
