The future of each country is formed by public thinking in a similar way to its philosophical, historical and cultural heritage, formed on the basis of its national statehood. Citizens of this region actively participate in the development of a legal democratic state under the existing system of political consciousness and in building a free civil society. Especially in the implementation of large-scale reforms in this regard, an important process is the political consciousness of young people and their activity. Exalting the value of a person in society, increasing his utility and well-being, activating the political consciousness of young people requires a unique philosophical outlook. Considering that today more than half of the population of Uzbekistan are young people, this issue indicates that increasing their social and political activity is one of the important directions in the reform process. Therefore, it is important to protect young people from the influence of external ideological and ideological encroachments, to protect their rights and interests, and to constantly raise their political consciousness in society.

"Our main achievement is the ability of our multinational people to overcome any difficulties and trials, its modern worldview, political consciousness and social activity are increasing, it is not indifferent to what is happening around us, but lives with a sense of ownership"[1, 303]. All this is of great importance in increasing the political activity of young people and bringing the ideas being implemented to a new level.

The role of the education system in the development of the socio-philosophical thinking of the new Uzbekistan is the main force. In this process, it is important to raise the political consciousness of talented, gifted and enterprising youth studying in preschool institutions, schools, higher and secondary specialized educational institutions, to educate their spiritual world with nationalism. Because these young people are modern cadres who create the foundations of our future in the areas of the prosperous life of our country, economy, culture and production. In recent years, a strong legal and political consciousness has been formed in our country, aimed at all-round support for young people, finding their rightful place in life. In particular, the adoption of the new Law of the Republic of Uzbekistan "On State Policy towards Youth" is a program to raise work in this direction to a higher level.

In this law, special attention is focused on increasing the socio-political activity of young people and supporting them in society from a socio-economic point of view. In this regard, special tasks of state bodies, public and non-state organizations, and state institutions are determined. Especially the opportunities and conditions created for young people were systematically implemented on the basis of direct public control.

Today, in the new Uzbekistan, ample opportunities have been created for young people to realize their talents and potential in science, culture, art, literature and other areas. However, in a dangerous situation where the process of globalization is proceeding rapidly and various ideological battles are raging, parents, neighbors, teachers and the general public must be vigilant and aware. After all, we all need to be aware so that our youth do not fall under the influence of such threats. "We are all witnesses - today the world is changing dramatically at an unprecedented speed. Along with many positive developments in our social life, spiritual threats are becoming more and more dangerous, aimed at capturing the hearts and minds of the younger generation. In such a difficult situation, to protect our children from harmful influences, to always be on the alert and be on the alert, remains our most important task. From now on, we will resolutely continue the great work we have begun to educate our youth in the spirit of love and loyalty to the Motherland, to the ideas of independence, the realization of their talents and abilities, and noble aspirations[443-444]. Continuing our work in this direction, we need to raise the political consciousness of young people, develop their philosophical thinking and ideological immunity to the events of the outside world.

Today, the youth of new Uzbekistan should be not only active, but also knowledgeable, highly spiritual, able to withstand various spiritual threats in the world above, should act as the driving force of society. As our head of state said, we must raise our children ourselves, without giving them into the wrong hands. To do this, we need to talk more with young people, listen to their hearts, understand their pain, provide practical assistance in solving their problems, paying special attention to working with unorganized youth. In the effective fulfillment of this task, we must rely on our national traditions that have been formed over the centuries, the rich heritage of our ancestors, and the history of our national patriotism. The historical traditions of the Uzbek people through its rich cultural heritage act as a kind of historical school in activating the minds of young people. We must instill in them a sense of devotion in the spirit of the national ideal through the rich past of our ancestors, teach them education and upbringing in accordance with our national mentality, clarify the essence of the differences between Eastern and Western civilizations, as well as rich philosophical thinking. Only then will we be able to further enrich the values and unique moral ideals of our people, beautifully shaped over the centuries. "The optimistic view of young people on today's changes, the sustainability of plans for the future, their economy, education. This is especially evident in relation to spiritual reforms. In terms of the level of interest in science, the qualities of ambition in mastering various professions, young people have a significant advantage over other young representatives of the population"[4, 41]. In particular, in order for our youth to master modern knowledge and skills, foreign languages, become healthy and comprehensively developed people, take a worthy place in life, it is advisable to apply the foundations of our national statehood to reality, and mobilize all our forces and opportunities for their future.

An important socio-philosophical issue is to increase the socio-political activity of young people in society, the application of the elements of legal consciousness necessary in the history of our national statehood in public life, giving their political will entrepreneurial and entrepreneurial spirit. spirit, and expand their participation in the creation of a democratic state governed by the rule of law. We need to strengthen their methodological approach to reality, intensify their social and political activity, educate a generation from them that defends its rights and interests. In this process, the increasing role of political parties is a unique mechanism. In particular, the activities of the Youth wing of the Liberal Democratic Party of Uzbekistan, a movement of entrepreneurs and business people aimed at increasing the political and social activity of young people in our country, play the role of a unique school in realizing a dream. young people. Their aspirations for the future of our country, their search for the goals they have set for themselves, their political activity in all public affairs serve the development of society. This is a unique process of supporting young people in society and increasing their social and political activity, the ability to intelligently use modern information technologies, directly find national and foreign information, manage modern equipment and technologies in production, and be participants in innovative projects in the service sector. In this type of activity, the aspirations of young people to build a new Uzbekistan are a powerful force and wave, they serve to educate a unique political consciousness and form a unique scientific worldview in ensuring the well-being of our country.

The political will and consciousness of the Uzbek people, formed over the centuries, were directly combined with the social life of young people. Undoubtedly, the intensity, courage, enthusiasm and courage of young people, practical actions in the direction of noble dreams and aspirations will turn into a huge political force in the future of our society and open the doors of wide opportunities to achieve significant results. If "the representatives of one nation have a strong political enthusiasm and activity in relation to political processes, then others find their expression in such virtues as restraint and modesty. Such diversity is associated with the mentality, customs, traditions and values of the nation, formed over a long historical period, which are formed in the political consciousness through the national consciousness"[4, 37]. Therefore, the formation of the political consciousness of young people directly organically develops with the history of the nation and national statehood.

If we look at history, we will see that the noble goal of serving the Motherland and the people was embodied in the universal achievements of our great ancestors. For example, such great scientists as Abu Raykhan Beruni, Mirzo Ulugbek, poets and thinkers such as Alisher Navoi, Babur Mirzo, enlightened writers and scientists such as Abdulla Avloni, Fitrat, Abdulla Qadiri left their famous scientific discoveries as spiritual heritage and immortal works of art. the younger generation. The political consciousness of its time served to unite the spiritual world throughout the world. As long as the blood of our great-grandfathers flows in our veins, it is our noble duty to be their worthy successors, just like them, to strive for lofty goals. Because the manifestation of youth as a politically active person in society is directly related to the formation of national statehood in the history.

All large-scale reforms that our state and society create for our youth are aimed at a prosperous future. Today, the youth should use all their strengths and opportunities to become active participants in the political events in our country, and use their political consciousness to create the foundations of the Third Renaissance. In the new Uzbekistan, special attention should be paid to increasing the socio-political activity of our youth, their participation in the reforms of national statehood with the idea of their nation. Today, young people are given ample opportunities to act as an active political stratum around the world. However, according to the Secretary General of the Inter-Parliamentary Union Martin Chungong, although more than half of the world's population is under 30 years old, the share of young MPs who have become the political elite worldwide is less than 2.6. %. Relatively positive can be considered the fact that in Uzbekistan this figure exceeds 6 percent. Young people always show their originality in the system of social relations by their active aspirations and initiatives in the development of society. We support the inter-parliamentary association "Support the youth in parliament!" We always support a noble initiative. We need to strengthen their contribution to the development of statehood as active citizens. Based on this system, we will involve our politically mature and active young men and women more widely in the activities of our national parliament and local councils. At the same time, at the initiative of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan, a school of representatives of the youth parliament was created in local councils, as well as in the Senate and the Legislative Chamber. Also among the talented youth formed a new generation of reserve personnel – "Leaders of the Future".

We need to link another topical issue that worries all of us in society, that is, manners, behavior, cultural level, education of our youth with the foundations of our strong national statehood. We are doing a lot of work in this direction, but to further enhance their effectiveness, we need to pay serious attention to the following issues:

- the development of reading and reading culture among young people should be in the center of our constant attention;

- it is necessary to take measures so that young people do not fall under the influence of crime, drug addiction, alcoholism, separation of families, destructive and radical movements;

- on the basis of national values, we need to raise the political consciousness of our youth, raise their socio-philosophical thinking.

Today we all understand how important it is to educate young people in the spirit of national patriotism, to strengthen their civic position.

In conclusion, we note that the issue of raising the political self-awareness of our youth always forms an original national character at the heart of the reforms carried out by our country. It gives rise to the philosophical views of people on reality and ideological immunity, which serve to form innovative ideas in the hearts of young people. Thus, each of us, with his active citizenship, seeks to ensure a prosperous future for the younger generation, which strives to achieve clear goals for the sake of a bright future for our country, to develop their talents in the spirit of the national ideal.
